We look forward to hearing from you! Here are our writer's guidelines for your review:

We are looking for lively, original, well-written stories that provide a good sense of place, with useful information and fresh ideas about travel and the travel industry. Please keep in mind that Pathfinders' main audience is African Americans, though occasionally we will look for articles relating to other persons of color: Native Americans, Hispanic and Asians. Pathfinders Travel Magazine is not a history magazine. Please do not send historical pieces even though they may be very interesting for another type of publication. Remember, Pathfinders' goal is to tell its readers where to go, what to do, where to dine, and how to get there from a cultural perspective. We do not publish travel essays. Do not send material that has been printed elsewhere; this includes photos and quotes unless previously agreed to by Pathfinders' editors.

Unless we have worked together before, we prefer seeing finished articles rather than query letters. Unless otherwise agreed to in writing, all articles are submitted on speculation. We do not pay by the inch or by the word. All articles should be in either WordPerfect or Microsoft Word. They should be double-spaced and saved as text only file. Include hard copy of article. E-mail articles are accepted only by request from editors. Pathfinders will assume no responsibility for unsolicited articles. Photographs should be at least 300 dpi and sent in either JPEG or TIFF format.

Pathfinders Travel Magazine forbids the use of its name to obtain writing assignments. Freelancers are not to describe themselves as representatives of Pathfinders, even if the editor has indicated an interest in a particular article for possible publication. Pathfinders editors will make all travel assignments for travel articles for Pathfinders Travel Magazine.

Pathfinders Travel Magazine reserves the right to place material on its WEB Site as it originally appears in the magazine.

Service articles such as How to Protect Your Valuable While on the Beach, 10 Best, Top 10, Round up Pieces, Looking Back, and articles for the Chef's Table and In the Vineyard, our wine column and Looking Back, a 1000 word article that takes a historical look at a travel destination or subject and brings it up to current day, are articles that are most likely to be accepted from freelance journalists.

Payment and tear sheets for free-lance material sent within a reasonable period following publication.
